

Governments realized they would need a way to write records and other information.

The writing system was made with several different characters that symbolized words.

The government could then record anything that was needed.